Oil Truck Runs Amok ... Smashes Garage

Slipping its brakes during an oil delivery on Sheldon rd., Watertown, truck runs wild down hill, crosses Trapelo rd., Belmont, like a destroyer escort and turns into a private driveway . . . to complete an orgy of destruction by knocking the garage of Mrs. Isabel S. Morris of Belmont st., off its foundation and piling up a parked car . . . like this. Truck driver Russell H. Henry of High st., Medford, was unhurt.

Japs Repulsed In India Drive

By JAMES E. BROWN

NEW DELHI, March 24 (INS)—Allied jungle fighters, in a sudden counter against a three-pronged Japanese invasion of India, threw one column back today and regained four strong positions. The Japs suffered heavy casualties, Lord Louis Mountbatten, the Allied commander, announced.

(A wireless transmission by the Jap Domei agency asserted the Nipponese were continuing a steady advance on Indian territory and claimed that the Allied 20th division had been completely encircled. There was absolutely no substantiation of the enemy report.)

The main column of the enemy was reported 28 miles from Imphal, capital of the state of Manipur and important communications hub.

Two other columns also have crashed over the India-Burma frontier.

JAPS LOSE 3 POSITIONS

Imphal is a main Allied base and the Japs apparently are driving for it to cut supply routes to Allied forces now fighting inside Burma. These Allied forces, too, gained yesterday, taking an important position below Buthidaung after a heavy artillery barrage.

Counter-attacking Allied forces on the Imphal-Tiddim road drove the Japs from three positions flanking that artery. Farther north other patrols closed in on what Mountbatten described as "one of the main enemy positions."

Another enemy vantage point west of the Allied positions in the Chin hills fell to the Allies with the Japs suffering heavy casualties.

ALLIES SET TO STRIKE

Military observers at Allied headquarters were confident that the anticipated test of strength will result in the defeat of the enemy columns, now nearing the western edges of an important communications network.

The Allies will strike at the Nipponese, these observers predicted, at the most favorable moment, biding the time until that hour strikes.

The sources, speaking even as the start of a major battle was awaited, predicted that "the situation will be cleared up in a few days" but refused to speculate as

India Revolt Tojo's Aim In Invasion

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Japan's Gen. Tojo is straining hard to make capital out of the "invasion" across the northeast border of India from Burma.

It's of more than passing interest to find him trying to build a political sensation out of it with the claim the so-called Indian national army, with headquarters in Burma, is participating with the idea of liberating India.

There is thus far no major threat, either military or political, against India. Allied headquarters minimize the importance of the attack. However, I'm sure they don't mean for us to dismiss lightly any enemy invasion. We cannot forget that this great subcontinent is the chief Allied base for the final smash against Japan. It's complete security is vital.

Chungking is shocked by the development. Unofficially the feeling is expressed in the Chinese capital that the invasion is supplying the Japanese propaganda guns with the best ammunition they've had in months.

There is small doubt that Tojo long ago abandoned hope of invading India in a big way, but he never has given up hope of causing revolt against the British.

Both Tokyo and Berlin have been pouring anti-British propaganda into India over the air ever since the war started in an effort to start a revolution. The Japanese have posed as the liberators of the Indians, and have made grandiose promises of absolute independence.

One of the Axis' best bets has been Subhas Chandra Bose, the Indian leader who has been trying to stir his people up from the security of Japanese-controlled territory

Pope's Illness Story Denied by Germans

NEW YORK, March 24 (INS)—German propagandists did a reverse spin today and came up with a denial of their own reports that Pope Pius XII has been ill.

Russians Push Into Foothills Of Carpathians

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, March 24 (AP)—Russian troops drew within sight of the Prut river from heights 15 miles away today and continued their advance in Bessarabia through the first foothills of the Carpathian mountains.

The Prut is the boundary of Rumania proper. The Dniester, which was the prewar boundary, has been breached on a wide front.

Five miles beyond the Prut is an important north-south railroad which is the key to northeastern Rumania.

Marshal Konev's second Ukrainian army was reported increasing the pace of its advance toward the Prut, now that firmer and higher ground is underfoot.

(Between Tarnopol and Proskurov, where the Russians announced a 35-mile break-through, the German communique said "grim defensive fighting against superior Soviet combat groups continues." The Germans asserted they had repulsed other Russians northwest of Kovel, 33 miles from the Curzon line in old Poland.

(The Red army also was reported attacking southeast of Vitebsk in White Russia "with strong forces" and on two sides of the isolated Crimea.)

IN WILD FLIGHT

Boris Polevoy, war correspondent in Bessarabia, wired Pravda the Germans and Rumanians are fleeing in wild confusion, abandoning rifles and machineguns.

"They grab onto anything they can, to carts and even tails of horses," the dispatch said. "Some more lucky ones fled on oxen." Polevoy said the peasants of Bessarabia were meeting the advancing Red army in colorful processions, bearing church banners and traditional offerings of bread and salt.

With Konev's swift advance through northeast Bessarabia against Rumanian units, their German commanders appeared unable to hold them together for a concerted stand, field dispatches said.

REDS INTENSIFY DRIVE

The Nazis apparently were feeling the strong pressure of the Russian columns toward Czernowitz, important rail and highway city at the foot of the Carpathians, approximately 90 miles due west of Mogilev Podolski.

They were reported struggling desperately to throw up defense lines around the city as the Soviet drive developed in intensity from the north and the east.

Czernowitz is regarded by Soviet military experts as the key to the Rumanian province of Bocovina.

Further north, Marshal Zhukov's three-day-old drive, which has liberated 200 populated points in a 35-mile advance, took his forces into the heart of the communications area controlling Lwow's connections with the lower Ukraine, the Russians said.

This strong push by the first Ukrainian army also outflanked Tarnopol, front dispatches reported, and left the twin German defense bastion of Proskurov to the east within the Red army's salient.

RUSSIA—Red Army forces smash on toward Warsaw in a 43-mile advance, taking Kovel, and drive through German lines between Tarnopol and Proskurov for a 37-mile gain. Reds also advanced to Voznesensk, on the Bug river 50 miles above Nikolaev. Open arrow indicates reported German occupation of Rumania.

ALLIED DRIVE GAINS GROUND IN CASSINO

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

NAPLES, March 24 (INS)—Supported by heavy tank and artillery fire, New Zealand infantrymen renewed their assault against German positions in the western edges of Cassino today and eked out slight advances which cost the Nazis heavily in killed and captured.

Near-by Allied tank units battered a path toward the strategic Hotel des Roses, still held by the enemy. German troops also hold the Continental Hotel, the outlying ampitheater and the ducal palace, as well as other "main buildings."

On the whole the situation within Cassino was unchanged. The Luftwaffe attempted to strafe the Allied infantry, sending 50 planes roaring over strategic highway 6 and losing seven of them.

North of Cassino, the enemy shelled the Portella and Castellone areas for the second straight day. Invader planes of the Mediterranean air force blasted Nazi mortar positions close to the Benedictine abbey and dropped supplies on three occasions to Allied forces isloated near the top of Abbey Hill.

In the beachhead, enemy artillery increased its fire, especially against areas to the rear of Anzio itself.

Curtin Off for U. S., British Parleys

CANBERRA, Australia, March 24 (AP)—Premier Curtin said his farewells to Parliament today before leaving for conferences in London and Washington and won the assurance from the opposition party it would do nothing to cut short his trip.

The government head told Parliament he would put the Australian viewpoint strongly before British and American leaders and said he hoped to influence ultimate decisions of strategy and collaboration.

Western Reich Today's Target

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—American heavy bombers drove into Germany for the third straight day, today, bombing military targets in western Germany, a United States communique announced, following strong RAF night blows at objectives in France.

While Flying Fortresses smashed into Germany to the accompaniment of the German warning service, "Achtung (attention), achtung! Strong enemy bomber formations flying over western Germany," Liberators bombed airfields in northeastern France.

These attacks raised to 19—a new high record—the number of attacks in a month. Fourteen of the attacks in March were directed against targets in Germany. The previous high for operational missions was 18 in February.

RAF heavies bombing objectives around the industrial city of Lyon in southern France and the railroad yards of Laon, 80 miles northeast of Paris, last night brought the total Allied air forces over Germany and occupied territory in 36 hours to between 5000 and 6000 planes, it was estimated. Bomb tonnage for that period was boosted to around 7000.

Two RAF planes were lost last night in operations which included Mosquito stabs at the Rhineland communications center of Dortmund, and minelaying missions.

The United States air forces announced that 61 enemy aircraft were knocked down in yesterday's blasting of six targets in Germany. Thirty-nine of these were accounted for by the Fortresses and Liberators and 22 by the Thunderbolt, Lightning and Mustang escort.

While losing 27 heavy bombers and six fighters, American headquarters said an incomplete assessment of the damage done included:

Handorf airfield—Two out of five hangars hit and left burning. Barracks hit. Heavy concentration of bombs on landing field.

Hamm railroad yards—Direct hits on railroad bridge, hits on main line into city. Industrial damage on river front.

In addition to the Brunswick district, the aircraft park at Werl and the air force station at Achmer were hit.

TWO STUDIES OF JOAN BERRY ON WITNESS STAND IN LOS ANGELES FEDERAL COURT
Chaplin's Ex-Protege Near Tears As She Tells Frank Story of Her Love Affair With Him

Joan Takes Stand Again For Quizzing

LOS ANGELES, March 24—Her hands nervously clutching a purse, Joan Berry, 23, sat in the witness chair again today and, holding back the tears, faced the torrid grilling of Defense Counsel Jerry Giesler concerning the secrets of her alleged transcontinental sex life with Charlie Chaplin.

The purse held a secret, too. A picture of the baby she says is "his."

Hardly audible, steeling herself for the ordeal, the red-haired actress, former protegee of the 54-year-old comedian, had told her story to a jury of seven women and five men in Judge J. F. T. O'Connor's court.

They will decide whether Chaplin is guilty and shall be sent to prison for violating the Mann "White Slave" Act by transporting her to New York for allegedly immoral purposes, and sending her back to Hollywood for the same reason.

AVOIDS STARES

Pale, her pout-shaped lips quivering, Miss Berry told her story in hurried, near-whisper tones, as if she wanted to escape from the room and hide from the stares and bated breaths of the spectators who inched forward on seats to hear her lay bare the tale of Chaplin's warm embraces and passionate kisses—in Beverly Hills and in a lofty tower suite of New York's Waldorf-Astoria.

MARGARET BUELL WILDER, noted writer and author of "Since You Went Away," writes her impressions of the Chaplin trial. See Page 13.

Under questioning of U. S. Atty. Charles H. Carr, Miss Berry told how she met Chaplin in May, 1941, through Thomas Wells ("Tim") Durant, wealthy sportsman friend of Chaplin and co-defendant with him and five others on charges of conspiring to "deport" her from California under a vagrancy "floater."

She hadn't known Chaplin many days, she said, before she was seeing Chaplin in his home five or six times a week and engaging in illicit relations with him.

CARR OBJECTS

It didn't take her long on direct examination to tell all the government seeks to prove, but when Defense Atty. Jerry Giesler took over, he immediately challenged her repute as a woman of chastity, and demanded:

"You have had sexual relationships with men before this?"

"I object," cried Carr. "This question is immaterial, your honor. That is not pertinent to this issue. Even if he had a common prostitute on the witness stand, her morality would have no bearing on the question of whether the Mann Act had been violated."

"The government counsel is entirely correct and the objection is sustained," ruled Judge O'Connor.

At the very outset, Carr bluntly asked:

"During June, 1941, did you have sexual intercourse with Mr. Chaplin?"

Miss Berry hesitated, seemed on the verge of crying, bit her lip and looked at Carr. He offered no help.

"I did," she said, finally.

CHAPLIN FLUSHES

Judge O'Connor took Miss Berry in hand, sensed her discomfort and in a kindly, paternal way told her to take her time and tell her story and not be in a hurry and everything would be all right.

So she told the jury how Chaplin placed her under contract at $75 a week, then $100. How she wanted to go to New York because he didn't seem to be doing much about producing "Shadow and Substance," in which she was to portray Bridget, "a maid of simple faith." How finally he did tell her she could go to New York, because he, too, was going there.

He was going there to make an important speech on the "Second Front" under Actors' Fund auspices, and he wanted her near him. She said in New York she

OPA Poised to Seize All Gas Ration Records

In a drastic step to smash widespread gasoline black market sales flourishing on the theft of 250,000 coupons from the Hyde Park rationing board, OPA officials moved today to seize and impound the records of all rationing boards within the city of Boston.

With five persons already arrested, the arraignment of two of them in Worcester was temporarily halted by the suicide of Mrs. Fannie Zager Federman, 36, wife of Samuel Federman, 42, of Hudson, one of two Hudson men charged with receiving stolen coupons from Boston members of the illegal gas ring.

The move to seize and examine records of all Boston boards added weight to unverified reports that many politicians who frequented the barber shop in Court st., just across from City Hall, of Charles F. Paratori, 51, held as one of the leaders in an illegal gas coupon scheme, may be involved in prosecution of the black market operators.

HELD IN $2500 BAIL

Paratori, Angelo Piacenti, 32, Somerville cafe owner, and Miss Beverly Hollinger, 19, former clerk in the Hyde Park rationing office, are held in $2500 bail each on federal charges involving them in the sale of coupons to racketeers.

Miss Hollinger, of Massachusetts ave., Back Bay, a niece of Paratori, is charged with "transferring and delivering" coupons to her uncle. Paratori and Piacenti are accused of receiving stolen coupons and all face a hearing in federal court on April 13.

Federal officials said the girl's amazing revelations about how she doctored her account books to cover shortages of coupons were further reasons for the move to impound the records of Boston rationing boards. Asst. U. S. Atty. Harold G. Jackson said it would have taken at least three weeks to uncover her method if she had not explained it to authorities.

ARRAIGNMENT HELD UP

Two other men are under arrest in Hudson for receiving coupons which allegedly came from the Hyde Park board, but their arraignment was temporarily held up by the suicide of one defendant's wife.

Mrs. Federman was found dead of poison at her home while her husband, Samuel, 42, owner of a cut-rate specialty shop, was being questioned in the Hudson police station on a charge of receiving stolen coupons.

On learning of her death, Federman was immediately freed in bail of $500 and his arraignment delayed pending his wife's funeral which is scheduled for today. Augustus Figueira, 37, Hudson town official, arrested with Federman on similar charges, is scheduled to be arraigned today in Worcester with Federman.

A verdict of suicide in Mrs. Federman's death was given by Medical Examiner William D. Roche. She was the mother of two sons.

Dies in 100-Foot Leap From Cape Canal Bridge

BUZZARDS BAY, March 24 — From the high arch of Sagamore bridge, an unidentified civilian leaped early today into the Cape Cod Canal and certain death, according to the report of a military policeman guarding the span.

The civilian, it was stated by the guard, climbed the rail about 2 a. m. and flung himself down in a sheer drop of more than 100 feet to the swirling canal waters.

Though a search was made along the canal banks by military guards and police, no trace of the body was found.

A search also failed to disclose any car abandoned near the bridge, and there was further mystery as to how the civilian gained access to the heavily-protected span without challenge.

FOOT SEVERED, HOBBLES 100 YARDS FOR AID

The train was stopped at a junction so she crawled under the cars to reach the other side. As she emerged, the train started and the wheels passed over her leg, cutting off the foot.

She was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in a serious condition.

"THANKS, MOM"—Little Patricia McAuliffe, 6, of Quincy st., Roxbury, smiles up at her mother, Mrs. Margaret McAuliffe, who tore her daughter's clothes off when they became ignited while the child was playing near an oil range. Patricia is suffering from body burns, but is well on the road to recovery at City Hospital.

Churchill, Monty Praise Yank Troops in Review

By PIERRE J. HUSS

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, March 24 (INS)—Firm conviction victory will bless allied arms in the great "tug of war" that lies ahead was expressed by Great Britain's two chief military and political leaders today.

UNDER THE WIRE TO EIRE—These Irishmen had been working in England until the recent controversy that resulted in the banning of travel permits between Eire and England. They received permits to return to Eire just before the ban became effective . . . so were permitted to go home. Their papers are being examined at Hollyhead, Eng. International News Photo

Prime Minister Churchill, reviewing American bases in England, and Gen. Montgomery, speaking in London, served notice to the Nazis overrunning Europe that their sands of time have only a little way to go.

Montgomery said:

"We are preparing to participate in the biggest tug of war the world has ever seen.

"The pull may last a year; it may last longer; but it will be a magnificent party and we shall win."

To American paratroopers Churchill said:

"Soon you will have the opportunity of testifying to your faith in all those inspiring phrases of the American Constitution and striking a blow which—however it may leave the world—will, as we are determined, make it better and broader for all."

Churchill was accompanied by Gen. Eisenhower on his spectacular "front-seat" view of crack American invasion troops. Lieut.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of an American ground army, also was in the party.

REVIEWS AIR UNIT

Selecting an airborne unit, Churchill strode briskly past rank upon rank of the troops and their equipment. He wore a bowler hat, swung a walking stick and puffed at his ever-present cigar.

After the review he stood in a car at the edge of the open fields and said:

"You have a great part to play. You are especially trained; you are the most modern expression of the war."

"In these weeks which are passing so swiftly, I see gathered here on English soil these soldiers of our great American ally, preparing themselves to strike a blow for a cause which is a greater cause than either of our countries ever fought for in bygone days.

"This is a world cause because though no one is able to tell how the future world will shape itself, we are determined that the dark tyrannies overclouding our lives and which have drawn our people from their homes shall be battered down and that an example will be made which will prevent such tyrannies from again being erected upon the masses of the people.

"Our troops, British and American, are at this moment shedding their blood side by side in Italy, as at Cassino or the Anzio beachhead, fighting hard and losing heavily in the struggle and now, here, this comradeship in arms is being repeated.

"I am confident that not only will the enemy feel the shock of our joint exertion, but there will be left behind the core of good feeling, mutual understanding and unity, which in itself will be a priceless advantage to the good-will which has united us now for so many years.

WISHES ALL SUCCESS

"I thank God you are here and from the bottom of my heart I wish you all good fortune and success."

Churchill was a keen spectator of the American battle maneuvers, paying especially rapt attention to the parachutists and glider troops. Hundreds of chutists filled the skies, dropping from formation after formation of planes, onto a field just a short distance from Churchill's reviewing stand.

Later, Churchill, Lieut.-Gen. Bereton and other officials rode Army command cars through the brush and fields to watch ground units maneuver.

Atlantic Charter U. S. Guide--Hull

By KINGSBURY SMITH

WASHINGTON, March 24 (INS)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull will tell a group of 24 Republican "freshmen" members of the House today that the United States government is sticking to the principles of the Atlantic Charter and the Moscow pact.

At the same time, Hull intends to emphasize to the Republican representatives that the United States cannot stop the war or risk any serious break in Allied unity in order to try to compel Russia and Great Britain to apply those principles 100 per cent.

Hull is receiving the "freshmen" Republicans at the State Department in response to a joint letter from them asking what specific steps are being taken by the Administration to implement the Atlantic Charter and the Moscow pact.

The Republican group, whose spokesman is Rep. Robert Hale, of Maine, includes Rep. Clare Boothe Luce, of Connecticut. All members of the group have been consistent supporters of a policy of international co-operation.

In their joint letter to Hull, they expressed the belief that the American people are becoming confused by "the seeming emergence of embryonic spheres of influence on a reigonal basis—the domination of small nations by the great."

Scrub-Hub Drive To Begin Monday

Mayor Tobin's campaign to make Boston "a shining city by Easter," will get under way next Monday when city workers begin a two-week scrubbing campaign on city streets and buildings. The Mayor has asked all householders to co-operate.

Public Works Commr. George G. Hyland announced that the street cleaning force of 350 will be doubled during the campaign by borrowing men from the sewer, water and paving divisions.

School children will bring pledge cards to their homes asking their parents to promise to keep house premises in A-1 order.

Red Cross Goal Sought

While Boston has pledged more than 97 per cent of its goal of $3,367,000 in the 1944 Red Cross War Fund, and the nation as a whole has less than 60 per cent of its $200,000,000 quota, the drive here will not stop "with anything less than complete victory."

This was the announcement today of Charles F. Rowley, general chairman, who reported "progress slow" in the final efforts to clean up Boston's balance by the end of March.

Rowley urged all prospective donors, and those in a position to give for the second time, to mail, telephone, bring or send their pledges or contributions to headquarters, 10 Post Office sq.

Vets' Friends Wait Senate Debate Lull

By FRANK REILLY
Boston American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 24—As the Senate resumed sessions today after a 24-hour recess, legislative leaders expressed hope of an early break in the debate over the independent offices appropriations bill which would bring the veterans' omnibus "bill of rights" to the floor.

Once the veterans' bill comes up for consideration, passage is certain, they said, and the measure then will go directly to the House.

In order to prevent a further delay in the House, American Legion officials are urging relatives and friends of servicemen and women to continue with their support.

They are asked to send telegrams to members of the House from their districts urging speedy passage of the "GI Bill of Rights" when it reaches the lower branch.

It is expected that the measure will reach the House on Monday, and will be turned over to the committee on veterans' legislation headed by Cong. John E. Rankin of Mississippi.

The committee should report the bill out Tuesday, and if everything goes well it should be passed by the House Tuesday or Wednesday.

OPA Will Ease Political Rule

Sweeping changes are due to be made in OPA regulations to permit town meeting officials in New England communities to serve on local rationing boards, it was disclosed today, as a result of a spirited protest by George E. Lane, Weymouth board chairman, who was deposed for becoming a candidate for town meeting.

Regional OPA Administrator Eldon C. Shoup, on orders of National Administrator Chester Bowles, will revise regulations governing "political activity" of board members.

Despite a demand by Lane, however, that the revisions be made retroactive to reinstate local rationing officials who have been ousted, Bowles has instructed that the revisions affect only future cases.

Fumes Victim Saved By Gas Inspector

Patrick J. Sullivan, 45, of Alhambra st., West Roxbury, owed his life today to the diligence of William Yule, Boston Gas Co. inspector, who took pains to check homes in the neighborhood after repairing a gas main outside Sullivan's home.

Yule found Sullivan unconscious on the living room floor, overcome by fumes which had seeped through the cellar. Revived by firemen, he was removed to City Hospital, where his condition is "poor."

The forum was sponsored by the Boston branch of the National Council of Jewish Women.

Record Catch

NORFOLK, Va., March 24—"Grease that fryin' pan, mama, there's plenty of fish a-comin'."

That was the gist of gleeful shouts made by crew members of the Gloucester trawler, Uncle Guy, today after they reported a record catch of 30,000 pounds—approximately 150 barrels—in one dragnet in one hour and 40 minutes, off the Virginia capes.

"I have never seen so many fish in one dragnet since I have been going to sea," said John Maye, the trawler's cook.

Lonergan's Gay Cafe Night Life Figures in Trial

By JAMES H. PORTERFIELD

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—Through Wayne Lonergan's own statements and testimony of cafe society associates the prosecution hoped to spread some of its most damaging evidence on his murder trial record today.

Official disclosure of details of his questioning in Toronto after his arrest, his unsigned confession, and his relationship to night life friends with whom he and his wife wined and dined before she was slain Oct. 24, was in prospect.

A Toronto police stenographer began reading to the jury yesterday parts of a transcript in which the 26-year-old Canadian-born defendant was quoted as saying he and Patricia Lonergan separated because of "general apathy."

Upon completion of that transcript today, the State planned to introduce the New York confession. Then Mrs. Jean Murphy Jaburg, show girl with whom the RCAF aircraftman spent the evening before the slaying, was expected to testify.

First of the cafe society figures to testify yesterday was John Frederick Harjes, son of a banking family, whose apartment Lonergan used. He said he introduced Lonergan to the show girl, after he had expressed a desire to go out "with some nice girl."

When reading of the Canadian transcript began, Judge James Garrett Wallace announced parts would be excluded. A prosecution source said later these touched upon sexual habits of Lonergan

Of the sections read, these were the highlights:

Lonergan related that, generally speaking, his two years of married life ran "very smoothly," but that he tired of going out so much and that finally his wife told him he "would have to move out or she would."

He said he was disappointed over the estrangement and tried unsuccessfully to effect a reconciliation.

Mrs. Lonergan continued to give him money after he began living alone. They saw each other occasionally.

Two weeks before the slaying he came to New York from Toronto after receiving a telegram that Patricia had appendicitis. He said he found her in good health, and that she told him she didn't send the telegram. They spent the night together.

Lonergan returned to New York again the weekend of the slaying. He lunched with two women on Saturday—the day before Mrs. Lonergan's body was found—then went to Harjes' apartment and was introduced to Miss Jaburg.

Posse Ropes St. Bernard

Railway express men with lariats, police with whistles, on foot and in cruiser cars, and scores of volunteers joined early today in an effort to corral a 138-pound St. Bernard which broke out of its shipping crate in North Station.

The animal wandered through Charlestown, firmly ignored the "Come here, doggie" pleas of policemen, and finally made its way to a lumberyard off Mystic ave., Somerville, where lassoing tactics were finally substituted for alternate coaxing and cursing.

8-Story Fall Baby Lives

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 24 (AP)—Bryce L. Taylor, Jr., eight-month-old son of a returned Army flier, survived a fall from the eighth floor of a Miami Beach hotel and is "resting well" in the hospital.

X-ray photographs showed the baby had a broken bone in the right leg and a slight neck injury.

The parents, First Lieut. and Mrs. Bryce L. Taylor of Miller, Neb., told Army investigators they placed the child in the window and a screen apparently gave way. The baby fell in some bushes.

16 Lbs. of Butter And No Takers

KENMORE, N. Y., March 24 (AP)—Mrs. A. E. McAleer says she is trying her "darndest" to get rid of 16 pounds of butter—worth 156 points—"but no one will take it off my hands."

She and her husband were driving in Buffalo Wednesday "when we came to a big box in the road."

"My husband stopped to investigate," she said.

"He came back and asked me if I wanted some butter. I thought he'd lost his mind."

The McAleers took the box home and awaited word the owner was seeking the lost treasure. "But nothing happened," said Mrs. McAleer.

Then she informed police, who said Swift & Co. had reported the butter lost and would come for it. "But still nothing happened," declared the housewife.

Assistant Chief of Detectives J. L. Carroll says Swift still wants its butter.

"The company will have to go get it, though," Carroll declared.

CIO Seeks to Smash Little Steel Formula

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The CIO United Steel Workers of America, after three months of preliminary fencing, today began the main drive of what may be an epic campaign to smash the little steel formula and obtain other concessions in its contract with the steel industry.

Pres. Philip Murray outlined to the War Labor Board the basis of 14 demands, foremost of which are a general increase of 17 cents an hour, a guaranteed annual wage, vacations, dismissal pay, and a joint fund for steel workers in the armed services.

Highlights of the union's brief:

1—Economic stabilization, except for wages, has been ignored.

2—Industrial profiteering, not wages, have caused an inflationary rise in prices.

3—All corporate profits last year after taxes were 175 per cent above the 1936-39 average.

4—The farm parity principle completely protects farmers against rising living costs; this principle results in a continued rise in farm prices which in turn causes increases in the cost of living for wage earners.

5—Labor's percentage of the national income declined from 65.7 per cent in 1939 to 59.3 per cent last year, while corporation's percentage increased from 8 to 13 per cen, and the former's share rose from 5.9 to 7.1 per cent.

6—Steel corporations have the financial ability to meet the union's demand without a price increase.

SPRINGFIELD, March 24—Police here today were checking with Alabama authorities on the story told by Avis Uraca Voss, 22, of Hillsboro, Ala., that he had killed a man during a slugging and knifing scuffle.

45-PRODUCT RATION LIMIT WILL BE ASKED

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—Sen. Butler (R.) of Nebraska, said today that a movement is under way within the Senate banking committee to revise the stabilization law by limiting price and rationing controls to about 45 essential goods and commodities.

Butler, a member of the committee, said there is "no logic or reason" to Office of Price Administration efforts to control items "for which there is no critical need."

He said he would participate in an effort to revise the law so as to limit controls to foods and "items of an essential nature."

The committee, considering a bill to extend the stabilization program for a year beyond the present expiration date of June 30, called Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System, for testimony today as to the effectiveness of stabilization policies in the battle against inflation.

Committee Chairman Wagner (D.) of New York said the committee, driving ahead with the hope of concluding hearings by April 7, would hear Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce next week.

He said the committee also hopes to hear from Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board, Stabilization Director Fred Vinson and mayors of a number of cities, and a group of beef cattle men.

FEW UNDER 26 LIKELY TO BE DEFERRED

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The vast majority of men civilians 18 through 25 years of age are virtually on their way to a fighting war, unless they work on a farm or can't pass a physical test.

That became apparent today despite the uproar over drafting key technicians. Few men under 26 are likely to be deferred much longer.

On the other hand, officials estimate that 30 to 40 per cent of the under-26 men who are called will fail to meet physical standards and will go into 4-F.

On Feb. 1 there were, in the 18-25 age group, 348,000 non-fathers alone who were deferred in war production or war-supporting activities other than agriculture. Of those, at least 100,000 would be rejected, probably more.

Two problems have been worrying production and manpower agencies:

1—Some young men in new fields have better technical or scientific training than their elders. The Army recognizes these men, when irreplaceable, ought to stay on the job.

2—Industries like railroading, lumber and coal mining are in such need of manpower that losing any substantial number of men would be disastrous.

State draft directors have been instructed to defer men under 26 in critical positions and irreplaceable. The dilemma is: How many men should the state directors choose and in what activities?

Kin Believes Amelia May Be Alive

CINCINNATI, March 24 (INS)—Cecilia Earhart, cousin of Amelia Earhart, said today she believed the famed aviatrix still was alive unless she died of starvation.

"If she was picked up, she had enough stamina to withstand hardship," Cecilia declared.

The young woman, who is studying for her doctor's degree at the University of Cincinnati, said she still had hope that some of the rumors that Amelia had been picked up on or near one of the Pacific islands on her flight in 1937 with Fred Noonan, her navigator, were founded on fact.

One was that she was rescued by a Jap fishing boat when she came down between Jaluit and Ailinglapalap atolls,

BATAAN SMASH BY M'ARTHUR IS DEMANDED

Special to Boston Evening American

CHICAGO, March 24—Urging that Gen. MacArthur be given men and equipment enough to retake the Philippines and then surge on to Tokyo, the American Bataan Clan and the Bataan War Prisoners' Relief of Illinois demanded today that President Roosevelt make the Pacific conflict our No. 1 war.

Members of the organizations are wives, mothers, fathers and sisters of American fighting men slowly dying in Jap prison camps, or who have died in them. Their sentiment was put in words by Albert C. McArthur of Villa Park, president of the Regional American Bataan Clan, who said:

"MacArthur was told to save Australia. With few men and few planes and guns, he did that. Now his object is to retake the Philippines. Back him up and he'll soon do it. Then it will be: 'On to Tokyo.'"

The Bataan Clan president contended that the present "island-hopping" plan will take years to reach the Philippines.

As president of the Bataan War Prisoners' Relief of Illinois, Mrs. Lucy Palermo also said she is vitally interested in the liberation of the Philippines and the immediate improvement of the treatment American boys are receiving in the prisons.

The Bataan Clan and the Bataan War Prisoners' Relief are affiliated with many other groups striving to effect the rescue of the Bataan men and to avenge their comrades who paid with their lives.

Making the Panama Canal secure against attack has enabled the United States to speed men and supplies to the active theaters of the war, Mrs. Roosevelt told the troops, and constitutes an essential weapon that has helped "to change the tide of the war."

Tribute Paid To B. C. Hero

A peaceful vale in the heart of one of the South Pacific's war-torn Islands has been named "McLaughlin Grove" in honor of Lieut (jg) Joseph D. McLaughlin, former Boston College baseball star, who was killed in action aboard a Navy PT boat.

Fellow officers dedicated the grove, according to Sergt. Gordon D. Marston, of Stoneham, Marine combat correspondent and former Record-American reporter, out of respect for the memory of McLaughlin whom they like to recall as "the fighting Irishman from Boston."

Veteran of 24 engagments involving Jap destroyers and barges in New Georgia and other campaigns, McLaughlin was described by Lieut.-Comdr. Robert B. Kelly, USN, hero of the Bataan evacuation, as "one of the best PT officers. He begged to be sent into action ahead of men who were married and had families."

PROVIDENCE, March 24—Tennyson's "Crossing of the Bar" had a new meaning today for Rhode Island's women bus drivers.

Wilfred J. Paquin, state registrar of motor vehicles ruled that from now on "sunset and evening star" means "one clear call" for all female bus drivers to quit. He said the women bus operators will be granted limited jitney licenses, allowing them to drive only on runs between sunrise and sunset.

Joan Berry's Court Entrance High Spot of Chaplin Drama

By MARGARET BUELL WILDER

(Noted Writer and Author of the Successful Novel "Since You Went Away.")

Copyright, 1944, Los Angeles Examiner

LOS ANGELES, March 24—When Joan Berry walked into court as Prosecutor Carr's chief witness in the government's case against Charles Chaplin, you could not have heard the proverbial pin drop.

Rather it was like a quick small wind running through the room—a whisper of turning heads and rustle of shifting bodies. It was the tribute to a dramatic moment long awaited—the coming of the girl in a play more sordid and more threatening than any the comedian has ever been starred in.

During the long morning's suspense there had been discussion of this girl. Her reputation, her behavior, was the rope on which two determined lawyers played tug-o'-war.

STRAIN FORWARD

So that it was natural, when the bailiff opened the door for the long-awaited woman in the case, that every person should strain forward to see for himself what manner of girl this was.

Would she look common, cheap? As tough and designing as some of the defense counsel's remarks had let spectators to believe?

Would she break down when she saw Chaplin?

Old men—shabby old men with canes and hearing aids—bent forward, looking as if they wished they had their 20-year-old ears and eyes back. Tough-looking women with fat furs and sweaty faces, bulged at the seams in their effort to see whether this girl looked as if she would eventually be one of them.

Only the jury and the defendant retained the blankness of premeditation.

LIKE SCHOOL GIRL

As on Tuesday, the first day of the trial, Miss Berry looked like a school girl. At this, her first public appearance, she wore the same blue Chesterfield coat. Her loose auburn hair was arranged with the same simplicity.

But underneath the coat, instead of a blouse and skirt, she had on a brown street dress, cut with a becoming round, rather low, neck.

What looked like a string of real pearls completed this debutante simplicity.

When she answered the questioning of her own counsel and Defense Atty. Geisler, her well-modulated speaking voice bore witness to her professional training, admittedly paid for by Chaplin.

Throughout Carr's interrogation of her, she remained calm and spoke without great tensity. But when Giesler undertook the stand for his long-awaited cross-examination, her manner became noticeably less confident. Occasionally she made little helpless gestures with her hands.

GLANCES AT PEOPLE

And once, when the two lawyers had gone into a huddle at the judge's desk over some point of law, she glanced around the court, searching people's faces, as if to ask their sympathy before she ended with a look at the jury.

Several times, during the experienced probing of the cross examination, she hesitated, evidently fearing to incriminate herself, by saying too much and looked toward the prosecution's table, as if for advice.

But the red-haired Mr. Carr did not meet her glances. Evidently he was trusting her to stand on her own feet.

Not once did she and Chaplin seem to exchange glances. It is impossible to say what impression the government's star witness left on the jury.

NOT QUITE SO FRESH

In a close-up, after the two gruelling hours of questions were over, the witness did not look quite so fresh as when she entered court. Still diffident, unprofessional, she withdrew to a restroom while in the emptying courtroom Chaplin cheerily signed autographs.

Apparently unruffled and in high spirits, Chaplin showed his belief that things would go well for him. One of the people who watched him closely was Joseph Scott, the shaggy-browed lawyer who will act as Miss Berry's attorney in her approaching civil suit to establish the paternity of her young daughter, Carol Ann.

Judge O'Connor, as unruffled and kindly as during the first hours of the trial, several times told Joan to take her time and not to feel rushed. He instructed her to speak more clearly, if possible, for the jury.

Meanwhile the jury, impersonal and attentive, would have delighted any judge. They seemed, now that the most important witness of the trial was actually before them, to have merged together into one vast, considering face.

Chaplin

WENT TO SUITE

A "young gentleman" escorted her to Sherman Billingsley's Stork Club, where she saw Chaplin and Durante, and later she dined with Chaplin at 21 Club, went to El Morocco, and eventually, as dawn came, to his expensive suite in the Waldorf-Astoria Towers, where Durante retired because he was fatigued and left her alone with Chaplin.

It was there, she said, Chaplin asked her to go into his bedroom with him—and she did, emerging an hour and a half later after submitting to Chaplin's ardorous wooing.

First they were in the living room. Then Chaplin showed her the dining room. Then they went back to the living room, she said, and "we talked."

"Was any suggestion made as to whether you were to go somewhere else?" inquired Carr.

"Yes," responded Miss Berry.

"Where?"

"Mr. Chaplin's room."

"Tell us what he said."

JOAN FALTERS

"He said, 'Joan—,'" then she faltered and stopped and her breath came in quick gasps and Carr stood there and they were waiting to hear of this climactic moment.

"He said, 'Joan,'" she went on, softly—"'Joan, will you come into the bedroom with me?' I said 'yes.'"

She left "around three o'clock," and Chaplin escorted her by cab to the Hotel Pierre, and in the cab he told her proudly he thought he'd make another speech in South Carolina and he'd give her $300 to get back to Los Angeles.

He said, she testified, that he hoped to make a trip to Russia when he finished his picture.

In Dec., 1942, according to Miss Berry's testimony, she took a gun and went to Chaplin's house in Beverly Hills and told the actor: "I was going to kill myself," but he told her: "Don't be a fool."

So she put the gun on a table and instead gave herself to Chaplin, she said, remaining with him until 3 o'clock in the morning.

"STAY AWAY FROM ME"

That's when Chaplin told her, she testified, that he was going to "rehabilitate" her, but she'd have to get along on $25 a week and stay away from him unless he sent word that "I want to see you."

Giesler tried to get her to remember her crying at the pool outside the mansion and running back inside and sobbing that "I hate him. I hate him. I want to go to New York, but he won't let me," but she didn't recall this incident.

He brought out she got the letter of introduction to Durant, through whom she met Chaplin, from A. C. "Blumey" Blumenthal, in Mexico City, where he now is an impresario in a night club.

Giesler told the jury they would present a story that Chaplin became interested in her for professional reasons, but she got impatient and wanted a vacation in New York, which Chaplin at first refused to permit and finally consented to, paying her fare.

He said, in effect, that she was chasing Chaplin, not Chaplin chasing her, and very emphatically that Chaplin will deny any intimacies with Miss Berry in New York.

BROKE INTO HOME

The lawyer told the jury he "would not try to excuse any question of intimacy" prior to October, 1942 because when Chaplin "desider her—if he did—she would willingly and gratuitously do so."

And as for her intimacies—if any — prior to October, Giesler promised to prove Miss Berry was not then a "virgin" that he would show Chaplin was not taking advantage of "an innocent child."

He would show, said Giesler, that in December 1942 Miss Berry broke into Chaplin's Beverly Hills home armed with a gun and threatened to kill the actor and then herself, but wound up by staying all night and surrendering the gun in the morning in exchange for some money.

He would show, too, went on Giesler, that just the month before that she went to Tulsa and obtained money from a man with whom she "kept company," and that before she ever told anyone about the alleged Mann act violation she tried to get $150,000 out of Chaplin, but he turned her down, whereupon she filed the paternity suit and told a confidante she was going to get some money from a man because he had taken her from a "certain place to another place in violation of the law."

BOOKKEEPER WITNESS

Carr's first witness was Mrs. Lois E. Watt, bookkeeper at the Chaplin studios for 24 years.

She produced records and letters dealing with Miss Berry's contract and cancelled checks totaling approximately $10,000 covering her weekly salary payments by the studio as well as bills she incurred.

Carr read to the jury a letter dated May 22, 1942, from Miss Berry, then living in Beverly Hills, to Alfred Reeves, studio executive, in which she said she understood Chaplin's plans for a picture were indefinite, and asked that her contract be terminated.

On the same day, Reeves sent her a reply granting her request and advising her she would be paid until June 23, 1942, in view of the fact that on December 22, 1941, her contract had been extended six months.

In an effort to show that Miss Berry's contractural relationship ended prior to the alleged Mann Act violations in October, 1942, Carr introduced a check for $92 from the studio to Miss Berry, dated September 26, 1942, and charged to the payroll account.

Also identified by Mrs. Watt and placed in evidence was a memorandum invoice and check dated October 1, 1942, for $263.48, payable by the studio for the Revel Travel Service.

MONEY FOR TICKETS

The invoice showed this money paid for two first class one-way tickets and a bedroom for Miss Berry and her mother to use on the following day to go to New York.

"Can you state to what account the $263.48 was charged?" Carr inquired.

"To Mr. Chaplin's personal account," replied Mrs. Watt.

Mrs. Watt identified a $93 check to Dr. Charles J. Kraemer, Beverly Hills dentist who took care of Miss Berry's teeth, and a $500 contract with Dr. George R. Graeser, Beverly Hills orthodontist, providing for $450 down and $100 a month.

Chaplin's personal account also was charged with $1186.29 — a check to a department store for clothes purchased by Miss Berry, and three $65 checks in March, April and May, 1942, to the Reinhardt workshop.

Warn Blackout Violators

Massachusetts' first practice blackout and air raid test in more than five months will be so important Sunday that violators of blackout regulations will be prosecuted.

This warning was issued to residents of Boston by John J. Walsh, chairman of the Boston committee on public safety, while J. W. Farley, executive director of the state committee, urged everyone to avoid the confusion "which in a real raid might well menace the lives and safety of many."

Unless Sunday's test works smoothly, public safety officials expressed fear that the Army would insist on more frequent blackouts.

The test will start at 8:50 p. m., when with the sounding of the first warning street and house lights go out. The second signal at 9:05 p. m. will halt automobile and pedestrian traffic.

At 9:15 p. m. the third signal will sound, at which traffic may resume on low beam lights. But home lights may not go on until the all-clear at 9:30 p. m.

SLAVE-BAITING NAZIS IN ITALY LURE MILLION

—At least 1,000,000 Italians have been taken through the Brenner Pass during the past four and one-half months to man machines in the German armament industry, says Avanti, underground Italian newspaper.

The move apparently is continuing in Milan, Turin and other industrial areas, impelled by the lack of food in Italy.

Stampa, of Turin, for example, endeavoring to recruit workmen, assured them "your families will absolutely be cared for."

The German practice of stripping Italian factories of their machinery and raw materials presumably is another factor compelling Italian workmen to get in line.

One of the motives of the recent strike wave in Italy, said a Chiasso dispatch to the Basler Nachrichten, was the transport of a contingent of several thousand workers to Germany.

Nachrichten reported the Italians were reluctant to work in Germany, where discipline is most strict.

Tito Forces Kill 500 Enemy Troops

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—The Yugoslav Partisans of Marshal Tito killed 500 enemy troops in bitter fighting the last few days in eastern Bosnia, a broadcast communique said today.

It added that Partisans routed several hundred Germans and Chetniks near Trebinje in Hercegovina, and destroyed three railway stations in Slovenia.

Hori, Jap Foreign Spokesman, Dies

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—Tomokazu Hori, for two years the Japanese foreign office spokesman, is dead in Tokyo, a Berlin broadcast heard by U. S. monitors said today. Hori, frequently quoted in Tokyo dispatches, became spokesman in November, 1941, after serving as consul at Los Angeles, Nanking and Shanghai.

STABBED IN THE BACK BY ARTHRITIS

NOW is the time of the year when Arthritis is on the loose, stabbing victim after victim with its deadly dagger of pain. If you are one of those unfortunate people, here is important information for you to know. Many people suffering from nagging arthritis pains in back, knees, shoulders and hands, never suspect that these pains may be caused, in some cases, by excessive acids within the body.

As a dietary aid in the faster neutralization of these excessive acids, which in turn may tend to bring speedier pain relief in this extent, Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets were devised by a well-known food nutritionist. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets contain food sodium and food iodine, two minerals of nutritional value which may prove to be helpful to many arthritis sufferers. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets are free from all harmful chemical drugs. They positively do not contain injurious ingredients of any kind.

Prepare Garden Plans Well---Weiss

By FOSTER H. WEISS

(Head, Market Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Demonstration Garden on Boston Common.)

While the lingering effects of the unseasonal snowstorm may have served to dampen the ardor of some early gardening enthusiasts, all Victory Gardeners should keep in mind that this is the time to perfect plans for the coming season.

A few more days indoors offer opportunities for all gardeners to improve upon their plans and estimate a bit more closely the production needs of gardens.

In making plans and buying seeds, the Victory gardener must choose vegetables for nutritional value, family taste and ease of culture. He must also figure the size of family and size of garden plot.

Many gardeners have not yet purchased their seeds, so this is an excellent chance to get in a lesson on varieties. Selection of the proper varieties will make considerable difference in your results. Do not delay the buying of seeds too long as the better varieties will be sold out.

BEANS

Green Bush—Stringless Greenpod, Black Valentine, Bountiful or Plentiful, Tendergreen.
Wax—Pencil Pod Black Wax, Sure Crop Wax.
Pole—White Seeded Kentucky Wonder.
Lima—Burpees Fordhook, Baby Fordhook.
Horticultural—Dwarf French.

BEETS

Early and Midseason—Early Wonder or Crosby Egyptian.
Late—Detroit Dark Red.

CABBAGE

Early—Golden Acre.
Late—Danish Ballhead.

CARROTS

Early Shallow Soil—Red Cored Chantenoy Coreless.
Late—Hutchinson, Tendersweet, Danvers Half Long.

CHARD

Lucullus or Fordhook.

CORN

Early—Marcross, Carmelcross, Golden Early Market.
Late—Golden Cross Bantam.

CUCUMBERS

Any Improved White Spine such as Straight-8-Double Yield.

KALE

Dwarf Curled.

LETTUCE

Early Head—N. Y. No. 515, Imperial 44, Great Lakes (Use plants).
Early Head from seed—White Boston.
Midseason—Grand Rapids (Loose-leaf).

ONION

(Yellow)—Ebeneyer.
(White)—Silverskin—Onions will do best in this area if sets or plants are used.

PEAS

Dwarf, Thomas Laxton, World Record, Hundredfold.
Telephone, Alderman.

PEPPERS

Sweet—World Beater, Waltham Beauty.
Hot—Hot Squash.

RADISH

Scarlet Globe, White Icicle.

SPINACH

Long Standing, Summer Savoy.

SQUASH

Summer—Shagineck.
Winter—Butternut, Table Green, Buttercup.

TOMATOES

Trellis—Comet, Stokesdale.
Main Crop—Marglobe, Rutgers, Bonny Best.

Avoid buying Dwarf Champion or Late Stone tomato plants as they will not yield in this area.

Consult your local seedman on these varieties and if substitutes are necessary he will help you in your selection.

The Lend-Lease Report

IN ACCORDANCE with legal requirement, the President of the United States transmitted to Congress on March 11 of this year a report on the operations under the Lend-Lease Act.

This is the fourteenth such report by the President, and it brings the information to the people on the operations up to the end of 1943.

It is very important information.

The Lend-Lease operations constitute a war enterprise for which there is no precedent in history, and which no other nation than the United States in all the history of the world could have undertaken, however willing or whatever the necessity.

There has been a total export of American goods under the Lend-Lease Act accounting for the expenditure of MORE THAN FIFTEEN BILLION DOLLARS.

This is roughly the equivalent of the TOTAL NATIONAL DEBT OF THE UNITED STATES in 1930.

But the total of expenditures under Lend-Lease already provided for is an even more amazing figure.

There have been four direct appropriations for Lend-Lease, supplemented by transfers of funds authorized from other appropriations, reaching the wholly incomprehensible sum of NEARLY THIRTY-SIX BILLION DOLLARS.

This is greater than the total national debt of the United States in any year of American history prior to 1937.

We fought the entire first World War without ever having a national debt in excess of twenty-six billion dollars.

WHAT ARE the purposes of this tremendous expenditure, and particularly WHO ARE THE BENEFICIARIES?

The purposes as defined by the act itself are to "lend, lease, transfer or sell, or OTHERWISE DISPOSE OF" any defense articles to "any country whose defense the President deems vital to the defense of the United States."

The beneficiaries are of course the countries which President Roosevelt, so empowered, has decided should be defended in our interest and AT OUR EXPENSE.

It is significant and certainly interesting to note that the countries the President has put foremost among those to be defended in our interest and at our expense are NOT primarily engaged in the Pacific War—which is OUR most important and most difficult and most menacing war.

The country which we have thus defended at the second highest cost, in fact—Soviet Russia—is not even IN the Pacific War.

The country which we have defended at the highest cost of all—Great Britain—is primarily occupied with the European war, and it remains to be seen how effectively Britain will ultimately participate in the Pacific War.

By contrast, our Lend-Lease aid to China, which has been FIGHTING Japan for more than six years, totals only slightly more than ONE FIFTH of one billion dollars.

Our total Lend-Lease aid to China, India, Australia and New Zealand—all of which are wholly engaged in the Pacific War—has been less than two billion dollars; roughly HALF as much as our aid to Soviet Russia, and a THIRD as much as our aid to Great Britain.

IS IT NOT strange that President Roosevelt has "deemed" it so important to defend countries which are not helping us at present against our mortal enemy and may not help us at all, and deems it so unimportant to defend countries to which Japan is a mortal enemy as much as it is to us?

It was wise of Congress to require the President to report on Lend-Lease operations.

But would it not have been wiser of Congress to have made sure that the Lend-Lease operations would be conducted with more regard for AMERICAN defense, and more understanding of American DANGER and more acceptance and exercise of American RESPONSIBILITY?

Our information about Lend-Lease is interesting and significant.

Our still largely unfought and still largely unprovided-for War in the Pacific is revealed in the light of that information to be a challenge and an ACCUSATION.

Inspiring Leadership

WITHOUT a single dissenting vote, the New Hampshire Senate has placed itself on record as favoring the calling of a special constitutional convention to lower the voting age to eighteen.

The Granite State law-makers thus expressed the views of millions of Americans who believe that a man old enough to be entrusted with the responsibility of a gun is also old enough to share the responsibility of the ballot.

Unlike some officials in other States, the New Hampshire Senators did not try to escape their obligations by the hypocritical plea that a constitutional amendment would involve too much work and require too much time.

On the contrary, the Senators welcomed the opportunity to do an important something for the heroic younger servicemen who are standing shoulder to shoulder with their elders on the battlefields and who have a moral right to stand shoulder to shoulder with their elders at the voting booth.

New Hampshire's inspiring action should have a beneficial effect on all our New England States, on Massachusetts particularly,

THE World War draft yielded 6,373,414 men available for service. Of these 2,702,687 were accepted. And of these about 1,390,000 reached the fighting fronts. Consideration of these figures indicates World War II promises to make the last war look like a skirmish. As many as 7,000,000 men will probably see action at the fighting fronts before this war is over . . . Am informed most doctors of medicine do not like their friends to call them "Doc." They would rather be addressed by their first names. They say "Doc" is too much lacking in dignity to apply to an M. D. . . . "Girls are scarce where we are stationed in the Pacific," sadly writes a soldier. "And when a few appear the colonels and other officers date them."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q. "Bugs" Baer wrote that he once stole a girl named "Muscle Bound Annie" from you. How about it? A. The only thing "Bugs" ever stole was second base with the bases full. Q. I divorced a six-foot-two man to marry one whose height was five-ten inches. My husband is marvelous? Who said short men were not good lovers? A. Who said a man five feet, ten inches in height was a short man? Men of five feet, six inches, and under are in the short class . . . Q. The sergeant says that in Texas there is an armless dentist but he forgets his name. How could such a thing be possible? A. The armless dentist in Houston, Tex., is not a "he" but is Dr. Margaret Jones. She is armless but her activity in the field of dentistry is confined to lectures and radio talks on dental health.

BLESSED EVENTS: It was Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, of Johns Hopkins University, who said for the best results a woman should have her first baby after 20 and before 25. Her childbearing career should end at 35, he claimed. The ideal father is between 25 and 34. The doctor also said it is safe for a normal woman to have as many as seven children but unwise to have eight or more. The period of birth between children should be from 27 to 30 months. (Note—I was born when my mother was 32. I was her last child. My father was 43 at the time. My mother had four children.)

PASSING BY: Ralph Siewert, Major league rookie. He is six feet 11 inches tall and weighs 240 pounds. As a rule, the extremely tall type of pitcher does not last long. The most successful excessively tall pitcher was Eppa Jeppa Rixey, who lasted about 10 years in the big show . . . Harry Clork, Playwright and film scenarist. He was Nora Bayes' second husband. His name was Clark but his mother-in-law suggested if he had an "O" in his name he would be more successful. So Harry changed his name from Clark to Clork and from then on began to succeed in a large way. Consider the names of successful people who have an "O" in their name. Just to name a few: Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour, F. D. Roosevelt, J. Edgar Hoover, George Woolf, Eddie Arcaro, Joe Louis, Betty Hutton, Gen. Montgomery, Joe Di Maggio, Ty Cobb, Billy Rose, Dinah Shore and Mike Todd.

PLEASE NOTE: Ever hear of Patricia Winter? She created the first deodorant and the first liquid nail polish. In 1929, sensing a depression was imminent, Patricia sold her cosmetic business for $4,000,000 cash . . . "With women," observed Arthur Brisbane, "life really begins at 50. At 50 a woman has more brains, more heart, more energy, more courage than at any other age; and at all ages woman has more real mental and spiritual courage than man."

"See? I always knew I was officer material! Lookit how everybody's salutin' me!"

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Women talk 25 per cent faster than men, but say 40 per cent less. So claims a close observer of this situation. His figures seem about right. Women use too many unnecessary adjectives in conversation . . . The New York Sanitary Code calls for the death penalty for a dog who has bitten people three times . . . Ty Cobb has been nominated for president of the Cigarette Smokers of America Who Roll Their Own. Mr. Cobb has been rolling his own cigarettes for 40 years. I can't remember ever seeing a woman smoker who rolled her own cigarettes.

SIDELIGHTS: A New York City woman gets a permanent wave every six weeks or about eight a year. A beauty shop owner informs us that this is the New York record . . . Lillian Russell, of Los Angeles, Cal., has been made a member of the Namesakes of the Famous Club . . . The kiss U. S. Marine Howard Corbett, of Chicago, gave his lovely bride, Arleen Rosenburger, as revealed by a news photo, should get the award for the kiss of the month. Mr. Corbett is shown planting a vigorous smack on Arleen's lips, and she is apparently responding enthusiastically. She has her eyes closed.

REDHEADS: All red-haired women are jealous. Such was the claim of Prof. C. B. Davenport, who during his lifetime made an extensive study of red-haired persons. The professor stated red-haired women with dark blue or violet eyes and dark eyelashes make "good friends," but that the redheads with light blue eyes and pale lashes are "catty" and not to be trusted.

ASIDES: As to the measurements of Marlene Dietrich's justly famous limbs they are eight and one-half inches at the ankle, 12½ inches at the calf and 19¼ inches at the thigh . . . It was Harry Thurston Peck who said: "Too much learning and education makes a woman pedantic, self-assertive and bigoted. She feels she has a mission to instruct all those who do not happen to have learned precisely the same things she has learned and moreover, she is very self-conscious and painfully aware of her own [illegible]mentality."

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 24—Before you, or you, see Dick Powell, Linda Darnell and Jack Oakie in Arnold Pressburger's "It Happened Tomorrow" our soldiers at Bougainville are to be given that privilege.

A print has already been flown there and March 27 set for the world premiere (Bougainville's first) to be held on a beachhead across the international date line where today is always tomorrow. The Army Motion Picture Service made the arrangements.

A yet-unpublished article by Sergt. Barret McGurk, staff writer of Yank, inspired this premiere. The Army has given me permission to quote the excerpts. Says the Sergeant: "A month after the initial attacking wave at Bougainville, movies were being shown 300 yards behind the front line. By the fifth week 3500 soldiers were seeing movies. In the sixth week after the invasion the USO had movies running in hospital ward tents 50 feet behind the front line between two machine-gun nests. Japs can hear the Hollywood music an eighth of a mile outside the barbed wire." Aren't you proud of your industry?

THE SHY GARBO will come out of her shell long enough to accompany Lester Cowan to Washington to discuss plans for a movie dealing with the Norwegian Merchant Marine. She's to play a Norwegian woman skipper, from a story to be prepared by Sulka Viertel. So many movies have been rumored for Greta that we made a vow not to print another line until we had something definite. This looks accurate enough, although it cannot be recorded as a fact until Garbo and Cowan meet with the Norwegian minister. Because of the association Cowan had with the Norwegian representatives in Washington when he made "Commandos Strike at Dawn" he was chosen to produce the Garbo picture.

CONNIE MOORE is postponing that offer to star in "Pink Lady" on Broadway until she checks in at Republic for "Atlantic City." She read the script, given her by Producer Albert Cohn, and liked it so much that she decided to accept the starring offer. I hear that Dick Powell will probably be signed any minute for the male lead opposite Connie. He's been offered $60,000 to make "Atlantic City"—and that's a lot of money. It is to be Republic's most important musical.

IF THE LAW of compensation works, Robert Walker will get nothing but good breaks in his professional career because Hollywood hasn't been very good to him in his private life. The day that Jennifer Jones announced she was heading for Reno to get a divorce from Bob, I learned that M-G-M plans to star young Walker in a remake of "Merton of the Movies"—one of the funniest plays of all time. Paramount was paid the neat, round figure of $60,000 because M-G-M is eager to get just the right story to star Bob. If "See Here, Private Hargrove" does as expected he may bloom as a star over night.

SERGT. MAX BAER was in town for a few hours on his way to a camp to instruct our service men in physical training. The former heavyweight champion enlisted with his brother Buddy at the beginning of the war. He was given a few days' leave and he spent them with his wife, two sons and his new baby girl. He was in Los Angeles only between trains and said that Buddy had been very sick in Miami. He reminisced about his movie making and the night he won the chamionship fight, which I covered, in New York. I couldn't help but think that the war has calmed Max down a lot.

WHEN WARNERS first announced plans to film Louise Randall Pierson's biography, "Roughly Speaking," the lady's first husband, Rodney, said he hoped Franchot Tone would play him in the movie. Well, it appears Hubby No. 1 is going to get his wish. The deal for Franchot is hot and heavy and may be inked even before you read this. A highly amusing slant on the situation is that, at one time, Franchot's uncle was a beau of Mrs. Pierson's. Roz Russell, of course, has the Pierson role and is already at work on the Warner lot.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Staff Sergt. Jack Foisie, the 24-year-old writer who revealed the yarn about Americans shooting down their own planes, was guest at a newspaper dinner. He is very shy and blushes easily; an amusing sight—two little fans watching Herbert Marshall dozing at the wheel of his car while Lee (Mrs. M.) was inside a market shopping. The youngsters were as quiet as mice waiting for Bart to awaken and sign their autographs; Jennie Lee is the name of the wealthy Texas beauty who has been doing the night spots with Red Skelton; Wallie Beery has been smiling at Jackie Glass, a comely show girl. Benny Baker has joined Skeets Gallagher in the road company of "Good Night Ladies." He is taking Stu Erwin's role. The Erwins return to Hollywood; the honeymoon is over for Kim Hunter and Capt. Baldwin. He reports to El Centro and she goes back to work; Ramsey Ames, the gal Mickey Rooney has been giving the beeg rush to, gets a job in "A WAVE, a WAC and a Marine"; Bobby Watson has at last shaved off the Hitler mustache he wore in "Hitler's Gang" and can appear without fear of being hissed; Dian Manners, former actress, is writing a column called "Down Beat," and doing a good job. Her husband, Johnny Clark, now in "Irish Eyes Are Smiling," is a candidate for the Dennis Day spot in Jack Benny's show.

LINDA DARNELL
Soldiers to See Her Film

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

CARACAS, Venezuela, Thursday—The people of Venezuela seemed very friendly. They waved and made us feel most welcome. Venezuela now has a very progressive government. They are clearing away slums and have started on a low-cost housing program in the heart of the city of Caracas. They are training teachers and building new primary schools. A system of maternal and infancy care in which ladies' groups are much interested is being tried here.

The war has complicated the lives of these people because of the lack of shipping for their products. The cost of living has risen.

THE QUESTION OF GRANTING the franchise to women is now being discussed, and I gathered at my meeting with representative groups of ladies, and afterwards when I met with the press, that this is creating a good deal of talk. One might almost say a feminist movement exists here.

After lunching at our embassy, we went to call on Madame Medina Angarita, the wife of the President of Venezuela. The President and Madame Medina Angarita received us on our arrival at Mr. Phelps' house, and that night we dined at their home.

At 4 o'clock we reached the headquarters of the American Society, where I met first with the ladies belonging to various organizations and answered questions which they had prepared for me. Then I met the press, went through the building and back to our embassy for a reception for American women in Caracas. To my surprise, there must be several hundred here, which I think surprised even the ambassador.

to where or when the first decisive clash will take place.

They pointed out that the actual gravity of the enemy invasion cannot be measured until the Allies launch a major effort to stem the drive. Upon the first results of that campaign can be built a reliable picture of the enemy's strength, they declared.

Chinese Report Heavy Jap Troop Movements

CHUNGKING, March 24 (AP)—Heavy Japanese troop movements to South China, possibly presaging large-scale military operations in the southern area, were reported today by an Army spokesman, Maj.-Gen. C. C. Tseng, who said the Japanese closed the Tientsin-Pukow railroad to all but military traffic on Feb. 26.

Eight or nine trains daily, loaded with troops, are rolling southward, Gen. Tseng said. Reports indicate the Japs are disposing the troops as reinforcements in the areas near the Chinese-held sectors of the Canton-Hankow and Peiping-Hankow railroads. Chinese army headquarters believe the enemy may be mounting an offensive to clear these rail lines.

The troops shifted southward had heavy winter equipment, and probably came from Manchuria, Gen. Tseng said. The Japanese have also conscripted 15,000 Chinese for labor service, and recently commandeered 1200 horses.

2000-Ton Punch Saps Wewak

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 24 (AP)—More than 2000 tons of bombs concentrated so far this month on the Wewak sector of New Guinea have done this damage: wiped out Japanese air resistance; sunk thousands of tons of supply ships, and blew up fuel and ammunition dumps, gun positions and supply stores.

Allied conquest of the Admiralty Islands has severed Japan's supply route from Truk to New Guinea and left Wewak as the base upon which the Japanese at Bogia, Alexishafen and Madang must rely for supplies.

Paper Warning Sounded by OWI

WASHINGTON, March 24 (INS)—The Office of War Information declared that wartime demands for paper of all varieties are exceeding supply and efforts to increase pulpwood production and to salvage more waste paper must be continued.

The OWI said 38.6 per cent of all paper is used for war, 33.5 per cent is used to maintain the country's war economy and 27.9 per cent is needed for civilian economy.

Inventories of pulpwood are down to three fourths of normal and inventories of waste paper are low, OWI declared.

Paper, Tin Trucks Cruise City in Drive

Boston is making an encouraging response to appeals for greater collections of waste paper and scrap tin, City Salvage Director George G. Hyland announced today as trucks continued the pick-up drive in Wards 11 to 17.

Despite the delay caused by the storm, collections in the city's first 10 wards yielded 242,999 pounds of paper and 92,000 pounds of tin, compared with 235,125 pounds of paper and 96,290 pounds of tin in the same sections a month ago.

Tomorrow's collections in Wards 18 to 22 of Boston will wind up the concentrated drive in this city, for which Hyland has set a goal of 1,500,000 pounds of paper and 330,000 pounds of tin.

All kinds of paper are wanted, the salvage director said. He urged that newspapers, magazines, cartons and wrapping paper be done up in separate bundles.

Collections will take place Monday in Dedham, and in Needham from Monday through Friday. In Waltham (south side) a pickup campaign will be staged Sunday; Belmont, Wednesday through Friday of next week.

Smart Set Dancing Dates By BETTY ALDEN

CELEBRATING her husband's furlough from duty in the South, Mrs. Edwin Holmes, 3d (Nancy Rice), sported an orchid corsage on her black cocktail suit as she and Ed listened to Gracie Fields in the Copley-Plaza Oval Room. Making a third in their party was "Ted" Rugg of Brookline who is also in khaki and showed Nancy and Ed a snapshot of the pretty Washington deb he has been squiring around the capital this winter.

Lieut. (jg) Sherwood "Pete" Rollins, who composed many of the tuneful songs in pre-war Hasty Pudding shows, squired pretty Mary Lothrop to the Oval Room. She wore a striking rose flowered print on black crepe. Blonde Joan Wyatt had a pink camellia tucked in her hair to complement her slate gray self appliqued dress as she tripped the light fantastic with her Army escort.

Arriving in time for dinner were Mr. and Mrs. William E. Biddle 3d of Auburndale and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hodges. Mrs. Biddle (Helen Perkins) added a festive touch to her brown and white bow knot print with a corsage of white orchids, and Mrs. Hodges wore gardenias with her navy bolero suit and white eyelet pique vestee.

A merry foursome included Elizabeth Robb, Bill Pick of New York, Barbara MacColl of Providence and Paul Perkins, USNR OTC. A muted cosmos printed silk jersey was chosen by Alice Johnston of Brookline for her date with the Army and Jeanne Campbell and George O'Day were a peppy Radcliffe-Harvard twosome.

Blonde Pat Staples was at a table for two with her date and attracted many admiring glances in her geranium faille cocktail dress which had black Chantilly lace ruffled around the wrists to match the mantilla draped over her hair.

Easter Shoppers—Mrs. Frederic Winthrop, in town from Ipswich to look for a new bonnet for her daughter. She wore a striking belted coat of honey colored suede and brown accessories. Mrs. Charles E. Bacon was glimpsed at the jewelry counter, Mrs. Henry Grew hustling through the throng and Mrs. C. Chauncey Gray searching for accessories to complete the nifty black dress she picked for the Vincent show opening.

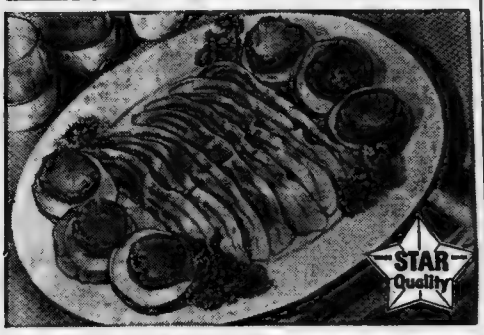
Armour Ideas Make the Most of Meat



Star Bacon with Sweet Potatoes and Apples

Here's a point-easy dinner that's mighty easy to prepare. Everything you need for it is easy to get—your market is sure to have these foods on hand. And what a wonderful combination of fine flavors—bacon, sweet potatoes and apples! All favorites!

Ration-wise, this meal is a real bargain—takes so few meat points per person! It takes just a few slices of Armour's Star Bacon to provide the satisfaction of a big meat meal—because Star Bacon is richly flavorful—sugar-cured in its own juices, then slow-smoked over fragrant hickory and hardwood fires!

Cook 2 unpeeled, medium sized sweet potatoes in boiling water until tender—then peel and slice in thick crosswise slices. Core 2 tart apples and slice in half-inch slices. Place ½ lb. of sliced Star Bacon in cold frying pan. Fry slowly over low heat for 10 to 12 minutes, turning frequently and pouring off fat as it accumulates. When crisp but not brittle the bacon is done. Using some of the bacon drippings, fry the apples and slices of sweet potatoes. Serve as illustrated. Serves 4.

Since I changed to pure, mild SweetHeart Soap

Dip that precious baby into a fleecy, creamy blanket of SweetHeart's gentle lather . . . and expect smiles and chuckles. Here is a soap so pure—so mild—it agrees with tender young skins. That fragrant, velvety lather helps keep baby's skin soft, smooth and oh, so clean.

SweetHeart Soap is oval in shape so there are no rough edges or corners that might bruise a tender skin. And that convenient oval cake is a boon for mother, because it stays "put" in her hand when baby wriggles and splashes.

Change to SweetHeart Soap today... it's the dainty cake of purity in the long-lasting oval shape.

DON'T WASTE SOAP... Vital war materials are used in making soap... Be careful not to waste it.

Kibbee-Pastor Team Tops

By DON WARD

Any resemblance between the philosophies of Guy Kibbee and Schopenhauer when it comes to the ladies—God bless 'em—is purely coincidental. For the rotund Romeo from Hollywood discourses with great amiability about the fair sex as star of the new show at the K-Boston.

Mr. Kibbee got a big hand from the early birds, as, of course, did Tony Pastor and his band boys. Tony opens the show with a solid "King Porter Stomp," closes it with his "Blossoms" theme, and there's a lot of fun in between times.

There are the Three Diamond Brothers, for example, who practically knock each other and the audience out with their slap-happy comedy antics and jags. And for dancing there's sweet little Betty Loraine, who puts the art of the ballet up into the swing parade.

The lovely Pastor vocalist, Virginia Maxey, sings "San Fernando Valley," "More Than You Know," and "Take It Easy," and puts them over with ease. All the Star-Dusters—three boys and a girl—harmonize happily in "I Couldn't Sleep a Wink" and "Put Your Arms Around Me." The little lady, incidentally, is Hutton, baby sister of the wife Ina Rae.

'Desert Song' Goes Modern, But It's Still Grand Show

By JOYCE DANA

Such strictly modern characters as Lefty Gomez, Hitler and Franco find themselves part and parcel of the new Technicolor and streamlined "Desert Song," which is the attraction at the Met.

For while the sands of Morocco still provide the striking background, and Dennis Morgan and Irene Manning sing "One Alone," and the "Blue Heaven" desert song, this latest Hollywood version of the Sigmund Romberg-Oscar Hammerstein operetta nevertheless bears little resemblance to its predecessors.

Not that it matters. For here, even in the presence of Gene Lockhart, is a picture more reminiscent of the colorful "Algiers," with German spies and conniving caliphs, and pretty girls dancing and singing, and brash young Americans fighting for justice and freedom.

It's before Germany and France are at War in 1939, and the Hitler heilers are interested in pushing a railroad through the North African deserts to Dakar, with their avaricious eyes on South America.

Dennis Morgan, having fought his best for Loyalist Spain, is on hand, playing the piano at one of those colorful oases where the Arabs drink only coffee and the Americans only gin.

But before everybody else finds out, you'll know that hiding behind a snood and wearing a flowing robe and hip boots, he's really doubling as El Khobar, leader of the enslaved Riffs, who are dying like flies to push through Schikelgruber's railroad.

Bruce Cabot is the debonair French colonel who is bowled over by both Irene and Caid Youseff (Victor Francen); Lynne Overman is the bibulous news correspondent (he never gets a scoop), and Faye Emerson the sloe-eyed Mata Hari who helps the boys out.

There are brisk desert sorties, hard riding, romance and songs. The Riffs, you can bet, are freed, and Dennis, for a change, gets the girl.

'Cover Girl' Loveliness Plus

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Cover Girl," Columbia's orchidaceous tune-and-toe musical in Technicolor now showing on Loew's and Orpheum screens, is as easy on the eyes as the frontpage lovelies who suggested it.

It clicks, too, in the listening department for Virginia Van Upp has provided Charles Vidor with an excellent script that blends comedy and drama in just the right proportions and he has directed with exceptional skill. Of course, the presence of Rita Hayworth and Gene Kelly at the head of the cast doesn't hurt the production or the box office.

Rita Hayworth

These two, the breathtaking beauty who learned to dance before she learned to toddle, and the patent-leather-haired song-and-dance menace of stage and screen, team like rum and coke. Solo or a deux, their dancing is pure enchantment. And Kelly, in that alter-ego dancing sequence, gives a performance you've never seen before and may never see again. It is sooper-dooper.

This honey in Technicolor, Broadway producer Arthur Schwertz' film production debut, stems from Gene Kelly's unpretentious Brooklyn night spot where Rita Hayworth dances her way into the boss' heart. They're two ambitious kids, not too ambitious, just enough to be able to swing a honeymoon cottage and a happy-ever-after future.

This program gets a rude if brief switcheroo when Rita wins a Cover Girl contest, causes Kelly's modest nightclub to burgeon with gaping top-drawer Manhattanites and is promptly promoted to a big Broadway show. The story behind the story was that Otto Kruger, magazine publisher who is promoting the contest, was in love with Rita's grandmother when the latter was the toast of Tony Pastor's. After one look at Rita is isn't difficult for the great man to let sentiment take over.

In the course of the plot's delightful unravelling, there are some stunning dance sequences and handsomely staged song numbers involving Rita and Gene together and singly, crisp comedy from clever Eve Arden, as a magazine editor, and, plus all this, 15 of Harry Conover's most gorgeous girls, including the Fourth Estate's favorite, Anita Colby.

Easily the hit song is "Long Ago," which reprises throughout the unreeling. Other listenable numbers in the pleasing Jerome Kern-Ira Gershwin score are the title song, "Poor John," the costumed comedy number; "The Show Must Go On," "Who's Complaining?" "Sure Thing" and "Put Me To the Test."

Now if we haven't made it clear, the idea is that "Cover Girl" is your eye-medicine for the week, guaranteed to put a springtime lilt in your lagging spirits.

Just the Perfume for Easter Finery

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

SNAZZY IS THE WORD for this three-piece suit . . . featuring the bolero . . . one of the newest notes for spring. The ruffled trimmed skirt . . . topped with a collarless brief jacket . . . and accented with a chalky white blouse in matching ruffle trim . . . are feminine and smart details. Warner star Ann Sheridan's white halo chapeau . . . draped in white wool yarn . . . is definitely high-style . . . for white hats will be most prominent in the Easter parade.—R. M.

VIOLETS ARE SUGGESTIVE of spring . . . and every girl dotes on wearing a sprig to perk up her costume . . . and to create a haloed scent of the delightful fragrance about her.

You can capture the rare poetical quality of this truly feminine in spirit flower . . . in a new wood violet fragrance series . . . as distinctive as it is fresh . . . and really true to the odor of the flower.

One whiff of this feminine perfumer's wood violet perfume on eau de toilette . . . or her body powder, sachet or bath oil . . . and at once you are transported to a cool, shady dell . . . or the back of a stream . . . or rolling meadow abundant with deliciously fragrant violets intermingled with the fresh, tangy scent of green leaves and bark.

For in this wood violet fragrance . . . the brilliant perfumer has contrived to combine these two qualities . . . the delicious, heady odor of sweet violets . . . with the poignant, subtle sharpness of greenery . . . and truly, the result is noteworthy. As I write . . . its odor about me . . . fires my imagination.

No woodland sprite was ever gayer . . . no spring day more intoxicating than this new fragrance . . . true blue essence of that most beloved of our native wild flowers . . . the violet.

EQUALLY EFFECTIVE WITH ALL COLORS

Why not wear a bit of this fragrance to intensify the color effect of your new spring clothes? Wear it with the new purples and blues . . . the whole range of fashion tones, in fact, from purple-red down to bluish pink . . . and you'll actually get an effect of intensified color. It's equally effective with the jungle flower shades . . . and pastels . . . and gives a lift to the subdued browns and grays and neutral beiges.

Worn with a sprig of violets . . . which you'll see everywhere this Easter . . . at the throat for a jabot . . . on suits as a corsage . . . on the shoulders of day time frocks . . . this color fragrance will add an exciting note to your costume . . . and give you that one extra touch that will make you distinctive.

The magic of the violet has been so deftly captured in this fragrance . . . so skillfully and artistically . . . that you truly will be able to lay claim to the title of the "grandest lady in the Easter parade" . . . if your seasonal finery is dressed up with this gracious and elite fragrance.

For the name of the creator of this wood violet fragrance, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write me care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR COLOR ACCENT to new spring clothes . . . and for a perfume truly feminine in spirit . . . the kind men prefer their women to wear . . . every beauty-conscious girl will want to sprinkle a drop of wood violet on her Easter finery . . . to become invigorated with that distinctive feeling of loveliness. Beauteous M-G-M Star Frances Rafferty poses—R. M.

Time on Her Hands

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm a young married woman, have been married several years and am thankful for a good husband. He has a fairly well-paying job and we live in a small apartment. I have almost everything I want. We never quarrel over money or anything, except I am highly emotional and imagine all sorts of things.

I even imagine that my husband is going with other women, I know he did when we were first married but have tried to forget it. I know he loves me and I love him. But I can't get out of my mind the fact that he used to run around with other women.

I don't have much to do in this small apartment and when I suggest getting a job on the outside, my husband won't hear of it. An unhappy childhood has given me a terrible inferiority complex. What do you suggest I do? W. W.

The trouble with you, my dear girl, is that you have too much time on your hands. If your husband objects to your taking a job, then you should join some organization like the Red Cross, or you could be a nurse's aide.

Haven't you an overworked friend to whom you can lend a hand with her housekeeping? But to stay home and dwell upon the time when your husband was addicted to philandering is certainly a way to stir up spectres of unhappiness.

Don't lead such an ingrowing life; the world needs every pair of hands today.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

'ARE YOU A chronic "corrector?" . . . Do you feel called upon to remind your husband of his grammatical error in the presence of others? Unless you have been asked to do this, don't do it, for it's embarrassing to others.

Serve Souffles

By MARTHA LEE

YOU CAN SERVE a really delicious dish that truly rates an Oscar with a little extra effort, if you choose. Souffles are really extremely simple to make, but since most people don't realize this, they always create quite an impression.

The most important thing is to know your company. If they're apt to be late, keep the oven hot, but don't "make with" the egg whites until they actually arrive. The half hour that the souffle takes to bake can be used very pleasurably chatting over the tidbits, tomato juice and such.

MEXICAN FISH SOUFFLE

1 cup cooked fish, flaked
1½ cups scalded milk
3 slices day-old white bread
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
3 tbsp. chopped pimiento
2 tbsp. minced parsley
1 tbsp. onion juice
½ tsp. salt Dash of pepper
¼ cup grated cheese
3 eggs, separated

Trim crusts from bread and dice. Pour on scalded milk and stir in the butter or margarine, pimiento, parsley, onion juice, seasonings and cheese. Mash with a fork until thoroughly mixed, the consistency of thick cream sauce. Add the flaked fish and the well beaten egg yolks. Mix thoroughly. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites gently and thoroughly. The mixture should look evenly fluffy, with no patches of unmixed egg white. Pour into a greased 1½ or 2 quart casserole, sprinkle with a little paprika, if liked. Stand the casserole in a shallow dish containing a little hot water and bake in a moderately hot oven, 425 deg. F., for 30 to 35 minutes or until well risen and nicely browned. Serve immediately. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Three quarters of a cup of left-over ham and a cup of cooked mushrooms may also be turned into an attractive company dish if you follow these directions:

HAM AND MUSHROOM SOUFFLE

2 cups medium white sauce
1-3 cup grated American cheese
¾ cup minced celery
1½ tbsp. minced pimiento
1 cup mushrooms, cooked
¾ cup cold chopped cooked ham
4 eggs, separated
¾ tsp. curry powder
1½ tsp. grated onion

To white sauce, add cheese, celery, pimiento, mushrooms, ham, well-beaten egg yolks, curry powder and onion. Mix well; then fold in stiffly beaten whites. Turn into a greased casserole and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 35 minutes, or until nicely browned. Makes 6 servings.

Or the souffle ingredients may be as simple as 1½ cups of cold minced lamb, some white sauce and eggs:

LAMB SOUFFLE

1 cup thick white sauce
2 eggs, separated
1½ cups cold minced lamb

Remove white sauce from heat and stir in well-beaten egg yolks; cool slightly, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish and put in pan of hot water; bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 45 to 50 minutes, or until delicately browned and firm to touch, and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Tiers on Spring Skirts

By BETTINA BEDWELL

IT'S NO joke to say that the fashioneers have ordered lots of tiers for the ladies this spring. It is, likewise, something said ladies ought to be happy about. For with the legal silhouette what it is, narrow to the point of being cramped for many kinds of figures, tiers provide a way out. They break the super-skimpy line, and are kind to figure faults below the waistline, be they faults of too much or too little in the way of flesh.

Maurice Rentner, which is a very great name in the field of wholesale design, puts tiers down one-side-only of narrow skirts, as you can see in Miss Dulin's sketch. This is charming and eases up the skirt line beautifully. The bolero jacket and skirt are made of black crepe, and the tiers on the left side of the skirt are ruffled and intercepted by bands. The white crepe blouse has big red rose embroidered on the right side.

HOLLYWOOD, March 24—Ginger Rogers and Paramount are fighting and she won't do the musical "The Count of Luxembourg," for them . . . Metro wants Lieut. Marion Hargrove to write material for a sequel to "See Here, Private Hargrove" for them, but because he sold the original for so little he is holding out for plenty for the follow-up.

Katharine Hepburn

Ann Sheridan and Duke York, a stunt man, dining together . . . Linda Darnell, Lyn Bari and Dana Andrews are getting together an act and would like to go overseas . . . Miss Lupino, posing for the pictures, said: "Now be careful boys and remember to combine good citizenship with good pictures" . . . The day Ruth Warrick went to work as the Army wife in "Mr. Winkle Goes to War" Miss Warrick's husband, Erik Rolf, was notified that he was in the Army . . . OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND is going to entertain the soldiers in Alaska . . . C. B. De Mille goes to Washington soon where his "The Story of Dr. Wassell" will have its premiere in Constitution Hall before a select audience. Going over some Washingtonians for speech material, C. B. came across this: A difficulty government offices in Washington have in saving wastepaper for the war effort is the danger it will fall into enemy hands. An office in the War Department solved this problem. Every day a sergeant makes the rounds of the desks asking, "Any secret trash for the confidential junkman?" . . . Joan Crawford is trying to get Warners to do the story of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, for she wants to portray her on the screen . . . The talented Walter Reisch is going to London with Sir Alexander Korda where he will serve as his assistant in the making of pictures . . . John Calvert and his "Cavalcade of Mysteries," which will have its premiere at the Playtime Theater, is already a sellout, and all the proceeds go to the WACs.

Boston After Dark

EXCLUSIVE: The man who owns the copyright to Ingrid Bergman and a half-dozen other Hollywood stars, and the man who,—incidentally—produced "Gone With the Wind," has telegraphed an offer to Lucy Cochrane, the Boston post-debby now trying to carve out a career for herself in show-business.

The man "who," of course, is David O. Selznick, the producer whom Hollywood calls the "star-owner" . . . Miss Cochrane is currently attached to "Mrs. January and Mr. Ex," the Billie Burke-Frank Craven play . . . She is understudy to the ingenue . . . She was graduated into the understudy job from the chorus of "The Ziegfeld Follies" . . . That show, incidentally, is permitted to carry the Ziegfeld name because of a deal made with the aforesaid Miss Burke, widow of the late Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr.

★ ★ ★

PHIL REGAN'S effortless singing of an entertaining, amusing repertory of old and new songs at the Statler's Terrace Room is a pleasure indeed, for listeners . . . The Terrace Room is playing to capacity . . . The Regan change of pace is at its best when Phil switches from a lyrical verse which gives promise of being an English folk-song into a chorus of "Mairzy Doats" . . . But the boyish-looking tenor is marvellous in his singing of "My Heart Tells Me," a song he introduced in a picture called "Sweet Rosy O'Grady" . . . It is difficult to envision Phil Regan as a grandfather—and the mere idea that Jo Regan, mother of the five Regan children, is a grandmother seems silly . . . But the Regans' dearest possession is a portfolio picture of Michael Joseph Regan, aged 10 months . . . The baby's daddy, eldest of the Regan brood, is in uniform.

TED STRAETER'S ORCHESTRA bears the mark of distinction this department always seeks in a "dance band" . . . The youngsters of the Back Bay and the suburbs have been applauding the Straeter dance-rhythm since the handsome leader opened the Terrace Room last fall . . . But the unit's skill in accompanying singers and dancers ("playing a show," as the trade calls it) is also of the highest grade . . . Straeter belongs on somebody's program—that's evident . . . And before dismissing the Terrace Room for the early spring season, it is a favor to the epicures among our readers to mention a delicacy bill-of-fared as "ice cream pie."

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Noel Toy's departure from Boston to New York's "Club Eighteen," where Jack White once held sway, left Jack Chan, Ruby Foo's maitre d', on the mourner's bench . . . Miss Toy was squired by Mr. Chan while she was in town . . . Dr. Fred Ornsteen, the Chelsea physician, was given a going-away party at the Fox and Hounds . . . A tribute to the popularity and ability of the Chelsea medico was the presence among the many guests of a majority who were the doctor's patients.

SCHOOL COMMITEEMAN Michael J. Ward has been receiving letters from friends and followers since Mike's ride in the South Boston parade a week ago, the letters have been inquiring whether the Ward family has been increased miraculously of late . . . The answer is "No"—that Mr. and Mrs. Ward are the parents of only two children, Bobby and Jane . . . The eight children who rode in the automobile with the school committee member from Brighton were four-fifths of the progeny of Col. John J. Carew, the Medford hero of Buna, who was the much-decorated other occupant of the Ward car.

4 More Hub High Schools Entered in Oratory Test

Four more Boston high schools—two of them parochial schools—have entered their star orators in the nationally-sponsored John Paul Jones oratorical contest, to participate in the Boston preliminaries on Friday, March 31, in historic Faneuil Hall.

Cathedral High School, Union Pk. st., South End, has nominated

Josephine Barra

Harry Forman

George Connolly for its competitor in the contest, sponsored in Boston by the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, and nationally by the Hearst newspapers throughout the country.

Mary C. Drennan, 17, of Gates st., South Boston, has been chosen to represent St. Augustine's High in South Boston in the contest dealing with the career of the daring Revolutionary commodore.

The entrants will have stiff competition from Mechanic Arts High's choice, Harvey M. Forman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Forman of Norfolk st., Dorchester.

A graduate of the Frank V. Thompson Grammar School in Dorchester, Forman has been winner of two Junior Town Hall forums held by Mechanic Arts High students during the current school year.

From Jeremiah E. Burke High School in Dorchester, Josephine Barra, 16, has been selected to represent her fellow-students, and another candidate for honors is 16-year-old John Carroll of Hyde Park ave., from the Hyde Park High School.

Prizes totalling $20,000 in war bonds are offered national winners, while local winners will garner extra bonus prizes offered by the Hearst Boston papers. There are twin groups of prizes for high school and college winners.

Today is the last day during which candidates of the various Boston high schools and colleges may be registered with the Contest Editotr, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston

"You bet I use Arrid! I wouldn't be without its wonderful protection for a moment. Some people may think it isn't nice to talk about underarm perspiration, but it's a whole lot worse to neglect perspiration and have it spoil a dress you treasure. So I unhesitatingly shout the praises of Arrid deodorant cream."

Armstrong Is Choice to Defeat Zanelli Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

HAMMERING HENRY Armstrong promises to shower Ralph Zanelli with punches in their 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tonight. Zanelli comes back with the statement he will handle the former triple world's champion even more roughly than he did Fritizie Zivic, who he defeated last December.

Armstrong has been made a late favorite at odds of 7 to 5. Earlier in the week Zanelli was a slight choice.

Ralph Zanelli

Armstrong then came to Boston, and he made such a good showing in his gym workouts that the price went to even money, and then tipped in favor of Hammering Henry.

There will be more money wagered on tonight's contest than on any held in Boston in many years. This is due to the wide division of opinion among the fans as to who will be the winner.

Tony Galento, in Boston as a referee of wrestling bouts in this area of the country, threw his 275 pounds on the scales in favor of Armstrong.

"I think Armstrong will beat Zanelli," said the man who once fought Joe Louis. "Even though Armstrong is 32 years of age, he is still a pretty good fighter. He throws a lot of punches."

I asked Galento if he had ever seen Zanelli box.

"No," he replied, "but I have seen Hammering Henry in action, and that is all I need to call the winner of the Garden skirmish."

How Zanelli Can Win

WHILE GALENTO may have the dope 100 per cent correct, I can figure out how Zanelli could win. Zanelli has a fine body. He is built for power, while he has great endurance. He can punch hard enough to knock out any man of his weight in the world.

For Zanelli to beat Armstrong he must keep firing punches every second he is in the ring. He cannot afford to rest for a single second. He must rough Armstrong up at close quarters, belt him around the head and body as he moves forward, and take some good long range smashes at him.

If Zanelli is sluggish and polite and permits Armstrong to set his own pace he will have his ears pinned back. Old fighters like Armstrong don't like to be hurried. They prefer setting their own pace. They like to flurry with both dukes for 10 to 20 seconds and then take a breather and barrage again.

Jake LaMotta handed Coley Welch a drubbing because he didn't stop throwing punches for a single second. That is the way the Armstrong of a half-dozen years ago fought. Hammering Henry was a busy citizen when under fire in the ring.

Fritzie Zivic then caught up with Armstrong, stripped him of his title in a 15-round bout, and then knocked him out in a return engagement. I saw the second bout, and Zivic didn't give Armstrong a second's rest.

Armstrong is not 75 per cent as good a fighter now as when Zivic knocked him out. He has retired a couple of times after admitting he was through as a fistic headliner. He's back in action again. Armstrong figures he has rebuilt some of his lost energy, while he contends one doesn't have to be much of a fighter to lick the kind of opposition they have around today.

★ ★ ★

Zanelli's Big Chance

RALPH ZANELLI is not a "Machine Gun" Tommy Jessup who will enter the ring with the jitters. Zanelli has opposed plenty of good fighters. I have always felt he could be as good as he wished to be.

The last time Zanelli fought Armstrong he got knocked out. Zanelli is an improved boxer over that tussle, while Armstrong has gone back. The shift in form of the two boxers should bring them into the ring tonight at fairly even terms.

With boxing booming, a capacity crowd will pay between $35,000 and $40,000 to see the battle.

Magic Coin Picks Armstrong to Win

Jack Conway's famous Magic Coin today picked Henry Armstrong to win from Ralph Zanelli in their 10-round bout at the Garden tonight.

A YEAR AGO TODAY—De Paul beat Dartmouth, 46-35, and Georgetown whipped New York University, 55-36, in the Eastern N. C. A. A. basketball semifinals at Madison Square Garden.

THREE YEARS AGO—Long Island University won the national invitation tournament by defeating Ohio University, 56-42, before a record crowd of 18,377 at Madison Square Garden.

FIVE YEARS AGO—The New York State Athletic Commission approved Tony Galento to appear in a heavyweight bout with Champion Joe Louis.

Dodds Makes 2-Mile Bid

CLEVELAND, March 24 (INS)—Gil Dodds returned to Ohio today prepared to deliver a record-breaking performance in the two-mile run in Cleveland tonight and a Sabbath sermon in his father's church Sunday. The former Ashland, O., college cross-country star who became the world's greatest indoor miler this year, will feature a brilliant field which includes seven other national champions in the fourth annual Knights of Columbus track carnival in the Cleveland Arena.

Dodds, who clipped the indoor mile mark to 4:06.4 in Chicago, will try for the world indoor two-mile time in the Columbian two-mile run in which Greg Rice set the record—8:51—a year ago.

TWO-MILE CHANCES GOOD

Following his running efforts, Dodds will go to Smithville, O., for the week-end. He will occupy the pulpit at the First Brethren Church where his father, Rev. J. G. Dodds, is pastor. It will be a return appearance in the small village church since he spoke to the same congregation last Sunday after the Chicago meet.

His chances of reducing the world two-mile mark are considered excellent. Three times in February, 1942, he was clocked in less than 8:54 and his development this year has been remarkable.

He faces a field composed of Jim Rafferty, New York A. C.; Jimmy Wisner, Baltimore, and Jerry Thompson, Great Lakes, former collegiate two-mile king.

HULSE IN MILE

Bill Hulse, in Dodd's absence from mile competition, will strive again to show the brilliant form which carried him last summer to the fastest outdoor mile ever run by an American. He is the favorite in the Universe Bulletin mile event.

Other national champions to appear in the Cleveland meet are Jack Defield, Minnesota, in the pole vault; Eddie Conwell, New York University, in the 45-yard dash; Bob Ufer, Michigan, in the 600-yard run; Ed Dugger, formerly of Tufts, in the high and low hurdles, and Dave Albritton, one-time Olympic champion, in the high jump.

HE ASKED FOR IT—Allie Stolz, prostrate under the ropes here, had asked Tippy Larkin, "Who said you could hit," at the third round's start in the N. Y. Garden. Tippy, burned, barraged Stolz with punches and had Allie so groggy at the end of the stanza that he was awarded a technical K.O. verdict

Stolz 'You Can't Hit' Rib Spurs Larkin to K. O. Win

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—Tony Pelliteri of Garfield, N. J., better known as Tippy Larkin, looked longingly today toward a prominent spot in the lightweight fistic title mixup. With his punching prowess, he doesn't care whether he gets a crack at Bob Montgomery, holder of the N. Y.-N. J.-Pa. version, or Juan Zurita, who has NBA sanction, but he wants to be in there against someone.

Last night, in an all-New Jersey scrap scheduled for 10 stanzas, he belted out Allie Stolz of Newark, a better than fair lightweight, in three heats. Some 15,737 fans paid $61,585 into Madison Square Garden's tills to see him do it.

STOLZ HAS TWO ROUNDS

Stolz had the better of the first two rounds, and then got a bit overconfident. While moving away, he took one of Larkin's rights to the chin without shuddering. Then came his mistake.

Stolz stuck out his jaw, and taunted:

"Who said you could hit? Come on, let's go!"

A minute later, as Larkin's right crashed into his face, Allie sat on the deck for a one count. Instead of taking nine he came right up, and went right back down for seven counts as Larkin caught him again with a right.

LEAPS TO ATTACK

Eyes glassy, he staggered up, and his second hit him with a sponge filled with water as he staggered into the ropes. Larkin leaped in, his right hand a-winging, and down Stolz went for a two-count which was halted by the bell.

Despite his declaration that he wanted to go on, Referee Arthur Donavan decided Stolz had enough and raised Larkin's hand 20 seconds before the rest period ended, giving him a K. O. verdict in the third session.

10 Candidates Report For Chicago U. Squad

CHICAGO, March 24 (AP)—Manpower problems, for the most part, are the No. 1 worries for professional league baseball managers, but consider the situation at the University of Chicago.

Coach Kyle Anderson counted 10 candidates for the Maroon team when he issued a call for practice.

Heavies Pace Amateur Card

Probably no other class in the New England amateur championship finals which will be staged at the Boston Arena, Monday night, will attract greater attention than the heavyweight division.

There will be three contests and the fight for the crown will be a punching affair between a trio that will have Al Wills, Auxie Hubbard and Bert Parmer, all of the U. S. Navy slashing it out for the title.

Parmer, recently back from a year's service in the Pacific war zone with the 31st Battalion, not only has acquitted himself as a boxer of merit but holds similar distinction in other athletic endeavors.

Monday Deadline For Boys' Club Play

Monday will mark the deadline for applications for the 21st annual amateur basketball tournament of the Boys' Club of Boston.

Teams that have not returned entry blanks and teams that desire to compete must obtain and file their applications on or before Monday at the Charlestown Boys' Club, 15 Green st., Charlestown.

The Sportsmanship Trophy, awarded each year by Nathaniel Ayers, former Boys' Club president, for the best teams of the tourney, will again be the outstanding attraction for the 200-odd teams scheduled to take part.

Yank Backbone Broken by Draft

The Yanks are going, and at the rate the world champions are departing for the service perhaps it was slightly prophetic when Skipper Joe McCarthy had the boys participating in a potato race yesterday.

The American League race will be just that to them if the migration continues.

Roy Weatherly is the latest definitely to be lost. The stubby outfielder had passed his physical, but believed he might not be called up immediately and had made plans to attend the Atlantic City camp.

He was a little too optimistic, it seems. It was learned yesterday he can expect to go into the service April 1.

To add to McCarthy's woes, Jack Phillips, a combination outfielder-infielder, McCarthy had been watching, announced he would leave today to meet his draft board at East Aurora, N. Y., April 1.

Just a week ago the Yankees lost Catcher Bill Dickey and Second Baseman Joe Gordon, and with Weatherly, who played center field part of the time last year, gone, the club has lost its backbone, as the saying is the strength of a team is through the middle.

News of other camps:

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The Nats are now pinning their third-base hopes on a due arrival, Luis Suarez, from Cuba. All Manager Ossie Bluege knows about him is what he got from Shortstop Candiate Pedro Gomez via the ragged interpretation of Alex Carrasquel.

FRENCH LICK, Ind.—Things were looking up today for Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Cubs, who was informed Outfielders Bill Nicholson and Andy Pafko would drift into camp this week-end. Both have been holdouts.

CAIRO, Ill.—Seven veterans are in the tentative lineups for the St. Louis Cardinals' game Sunday with the Fourth Ferrying Command team from Memphis. They are Johnny Hopp, Stan Musial, Walker Cooper, Ray Sanders, George Kurowski, Danny Litwhiler and Marty Marion.

FRENCH LICK, Ind.—Arrival of First Baseman Hal Troskey and Outfielder Guy Curtright brought the White Sox roster to 33 as Manager Jimmy Dykes prepared squad for first exhibitions of season tmorrow against Detroit at Evansville..

MUNCIE, Ind.—Manager Frankie Frisch of the Pirates, informed that slightly more moderate weather was predicted for today, moaned: "Bring it on—that's what we're waiting for. We've got to play a game Sunday with the Indians and a couple of workouts would be too good to believe."

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—The way the weather is behaving, Manager Bill McKechnie is worried because his Cincinnati Reds can't get any outdoor batting practice. "Our pitchers are far ahead of the hitters in conditioning," he said.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Manager Lou Boudreau has changed his mind about converting hurler Steve Gromek into an infielder and infielder Jimmy Grant into a flychaser after seeing them perform in workouts. Allie Reynolds, league's strikeout king last year, arrived in camp after being delayed by illness.

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Roger Cramer, starting his 15th major league season with his first workout of the year yesterday, says he'll be ready for Tigers' opening exhibition Saturday. If so, he'll go back to centerfield, restoring Hostetler over to rightfield and sending Eaton back to his normal place on the mound staff.

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y.—French Bordagaray, Dodger holdout, and Prexy Branch Rickey are farther apart than ever—from a mileage standpoint. Bordagaray came here yesterday and discussed terms with Rickey, then returned to New York while Rickey left for the Springfield, Mo., camp of the St. Paul's club.

LAKEWOOD, N. J.—The New York Giants' list of holdouts was down to six today, and only one—Ace Adams—is regarded seriously. He is asking a 100 per cent salary boost. He is expected in camp late today.

Whitey Wietelmann Hurt in Practice

By BILL GRIMES

WALLINGFORD, Ct., March 24—For the second time since he submitted to an operation in the fall of 1938, Bill "Whitey" Wietelmann threw out his right elbow yesterday during batting practice at the Choate School cage.

Fortunately, Dr. William R. Wrang was in town. He had come over from Middletown to examine Carl Lindquist's injured ankle and Wietelmann's eyelid, from which he removed a chalazion today.

Late in the batting practice, "Whitey" took a cut at one of Hal Schacker's offerings, missed and out popped his elbow. He was taken to the first aid room by Pres. Bob. Quinn, where Dr. Wrang was treating Lindquist.

After "Doc" May had given "Whitey's" elbow a hot and cold towel treatment for about 20 minutes, Dr. Wrang put the bone back in place and ordered the plucky little shortstop to stay out of uniform until the first of next week.

HAD ELBOW AILMENT

Back in 1938, while he was playing for Bob Coleman at Evansville, Wietelmann developed an elbow ailment. Although he complained that his arm pained when he threw, "Whitey" refused to get out of the lineup, because Evansville was fighting for the pennant, which it eventually won.

At the close of the three eye league playoffs, Wietelmann went to Boston and had an operation performed. During the next two years, he was not bothered by his arm, but, in a game, which the Braves played at Randolph Field, in Texas in the spring of 1941, Wietelmann suffered the same injury that occurred this afternoon.

DOTS AND DASHES

Connie Ryan, who reported yesterday, is the only player in camp with a tan . . . he acquired it while working out with Jesuit High School down in New Orleans . . . Connie must step on the old gas, if he is going to catch up with Ben Geraghty and Steve Shemo, the other contenders for second . . . Benny Bengough, the new coach, caught about a third of the batting practice yesterday and got a good workout, for Al Javery and Charlie Harris were blazing them up in mid-season form.
